BANDITS GET HALF MILLION

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

THERE are probably more livestock on Arkansas' paved highways this year than ever before, due to the prevailing shortage of pasture. Some hard feeling arose against The Star about a year ago when we denounced the practice of a few farmers living between Hope and Fulton, who turned their cattle onto paved No. 67 every night in defiance of the Hempstead county stock law. Now, because there is a real shortage of pasture, and because the stock law has not been enforced, cattle have multiplied on the highways until the situation has attracted national attention.

Quota Move for Wheat Abandoned at London Meet

Unrestrained Shipping by All Nations to Be Immediate Result

COTTONSEED SHORT

Tonnage Cut in Half—Textiles Behind Mark of July, 1933

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Attempts to reach an agreement on export quotas were definitely abandoned Tuesday by the world wheat conference which has been in session for a week.

There will be unrestrained shipping of wheat by all countries, at least until November.

Cottonseed 10 Per Cent Short. MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—C. E. Garner, secretary of the valley division of the National Cottonseed Products association, estimated Tuesday that cotton seed tonnage in Tennessee, Mississippi and Arkansas and Missouri this year will be about 40 per cent short of last year's crop.

Spinning Is Lighter. WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The cotton spinning industry was reported Tuesday by the Census Bureau to have operated during July at 74.3 per cent of capacity, on a single shift basis, compared with 72.7 during June this year and 117.5 per cent during July last year.

Tourists Protest Cows on Highway

Traffic Being Routed Around Arkansas by Auto Clubs

LITTLE ROCK.—Wild hogs and wild cattle make driving on the highways of Arkansas dangerous, according to statements being issued by the Detroit Automobile Club.

This information is divulged in a letter addressed to L. C. Cargile, President of the Arkansas Automobile Dealers Association, Inc., by T. P. Marks, automobile dealer of El Dorado, and also a director in the state association.

Mr. Marks says: "I have just returned from a trip to Chicago and Detroit. On my way back I went to the Detroit Automobile Club for the best route back South."

"I had heard on several occasions that they were routing people around Arkansas on account of cattle and hogs running wild on our highways, so in making application for information I asked for the best route to Dallas or New Orleans, and in both instances they routed me around the State."

"I asked why it would not be shorter through Little Rock to Texarkana or El Dorado. They said it would be, and the roads were good, but there were so many wild cattle and hogs on the highways that driving was dangerous."

This situation will be discussed at the next meeting of officers of the Arkansas Automobile Dealers Association and proper action taken, according to an announcement made at the headquarters of the association in the Gay Building, Little Rock.

Sheriff Turquette Loses in Miller

Recount Gives Victory to Tom Sewell by Margin of 65 Votes

TEXARKANA.—A recount of ballots cast for sheriff and county judge in Tuesday's Miller county Democratic primary brought no change in the standing of candidates.

Completion of the check gave Tom Sewell a lead of 65 over R. W. Turquette in the sheriff's race. Sewell's lead was increased by one vote by virtue of the recount. Sewell's total

You understand where the money comes from to build and maintain a trunk highway like No. 67. It comes largely from tourists outside of Arkansas.

You can stand, any day, at the intersection of Walnut and Third streets, and see for yourself. Texas alone supplies nearly half the long-distance traffic that passes up and down Third street—or so it seems.

In another column of today's Star you may read what T. P. Marks, of El Dorado, found when he asked the Detroit Automobile club for the best route "down South."

"They routed me around Arkansas," he said—"because there were so many wild cattle and hogs on the highways that driving was dangerous."

It is no injustice to ask the farmers who are violating the stock law to either obey it or risk arrest. Farmers don't like a bull-headed neighbor who lets his livestock run loose on the highway any more than townsmen do.

Hempstead county should "crack down."

I don't say that the stock law should be made an instrument of persecution in these hard times—but every man who lets his stock loose on our high-speed concrete highways should be prosecuted, if stock are bothering traffic on some of the gravel roads, at least the same degree of danger doesn't exist there that exists on paved No. 67, where speed is high, and much of the traffic is unfamiliar with conditions in our section.

Jew Boycott Upon Hitler Continues

Geneva Speaker Warns That Jewry Has Outlasted All Enemies

GENEVA, Switzerland.—(AP)—Jews of the world, through Dr. Nahum Goldmann, president of the Committee of Jewish Delegations Monday night warned the Hitler regime in Germany that Jewry has known more powerful adversaries than the Third Reich and has always "outlasted them."

Goldmann, addressing the opening session of the World Jewish Conference, scored the German government and reported that he had found anti-Semitic tendencies in Austria and a strong movement against his race in several South and Central American countries.

He named Argentina and Mexico among the latter and charge also that the Jewish religion, Hebrew literature and Zionism are persecuted in Soviet Russia.

Germany, under the present regime, was accused by Goldmann of trying to realize an exaggerated racial principle "by brutal methods of force."

"Democracy, liberalism, freedom and tolerance," he declared, "will retain their values when posterity will look back upon the Third Reich as a thing of horror."

Referring to the boycott against Hitler Germany, Goldmann announced that it will be continued until Jewish rights are restored.

Film Fame Won't Spoil Tiny Tot Star

Shirley Temple Is Whipped Twice by Cautious Mother

"Baby Barnhardt", Aged 5, No Different From Other Little Girls

FAN MAIL BARRED

Parents Won't Let Her Read It, Fearing She'll Become Vain

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Staff Service Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—She's a beautiful, blonde movie actress. She makes $1000 a week. Thousands idolize her on the screen, send her fan mail. But she's been turned over her mother's knee and spanked twice.

Laughing, dimpled, 5-year-old Shirley Temple, newest and most sensational "baby star" in pictures, is like the little girl in the nursery rhyme. When she's good, she is very good—and when she is bad she is punished. A Mrs. George F. Temple, mother of the young actress explains, "I don't want my little girl to become spoiled and egotistical. That's the biggest problem we have with Shirley, because everybody in the studio from the famous stars and executives down to the prop boys—are always making a fuss over her. That sort of thing is bad for any child."

Given Two Whippings. "Shirley's father and I do all we can to offset this. Shirley is like other children. There are times when she needs correction. I don't believe in whipping children, although it is true that I have had to resort to this twice. Why her daughter was punished. Mrs. Temple did not say. However, if her parents can help it, the "Baby Barnhardt" it not going to lose any of the experiences of a normal childhood just because she earns $1000 a week starring motion pictures and is the highest paid little girl in the world.

Shirley is 43 inches tall and weight 43 pounds. She has dimples in both cheeks, though the one on the right side shows most clearly in pictures. Her eyes are hazel-colored.

Likes Vegetable Soup

Aside from having the curliest golden head in Hollywood without benefit of beauty parlors—Shirley Temple has other distinctions setting her apart from the rest of the stars.

She never uses makeup.

She still has all her baby teeth.

Her chief enthusiasms are vegetable soup, dolls, dogs and her pet turtles.

She goes to bed promptly at 8 every night and doesn't mind that.

Never Sees Fan Mail

Her future? Well Shirley herself is a little vague about that just now. But in September she is starting to school. Being unable to read she never sees her fan mail.

Even if she could read, she wouldn't be allowed to see the letters, because nine out of 10 of them contain these words: "I think you are the most beautiful baby in the world." Mr. and Mrs. Temple don't want their daughter to get that notion.

George F. Temple, the little girl's father, is employed in a Santa Monica bank. None of his or Mrs. Shirley's relatives has ever been on the stage.

It was only a few months ago that the little singing and dancing star stole the movie spotlight. For two years she had been appearing in comedies occasionally without attracting any particular attention.

Gets $1000 a Week

Then she was cast in a full length feature "Stand Up and Cheer." Before the film was finished it was generally agreed that the youngster was destined to become one of the most successful of child players.

She was offered a contract at a salary of $150 a week. Her parents agreed and the contract was legally approved in court. Two more pictures followed, each a triumph for the little girl.

Studio executives offered Shirley a new contract at a salary of $1000 a week. Her father wanted more but later accepted this offer.

Whether she is making a picture or not Shirley rises at 7:30 every morning. Her breakfast consists of fruit, milk and cereal. If she and her mother are not going to the studio after breakfast, Shirley goes out in the back yard where she has a play house.

She makes mud pies, plays with her dolls, or amuses herself with her turtles and Markie, her black and white cocker spaniel.

Has Pleasant Time

Her luncheon is served at 12 o'clock. Then comes a short play period and after that a nap of at least an hour, and sometimes longer. She has supper at 6 o'clock.

Not an unpleasant routine for a little girl of five years. Shirley likes it. The naive gaiety which has won for her the hearts of so many thousands of Shirley's good at faces.

Here she wears a pout

But when she turns that smile on

Grownup stars! Look out.

Poor! I'm not such a little girl. See that shadow?

Fame'll never spoil our child, say Mama and Papa Temple.

Roosevelt Leaves for Rainey Rites

President Goes to Funeral of Late Speaker of the House

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called in his recovery lieutenant Tuesday for a last-minute check before departing to attend the funeral of Speaker Henry T. Rainey at Carrollton, Ill.

He planned to leave Tuesday by special train.

After the funeral Wednesday he will go directly to Hyde Park, N. Y., to establish the summer White House.

Attends Funeral

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt will leave Tuesday on a Mid-Western journey of tribute to a friend and political ally—the late Speaker Henry T. Rainey.

The body of the house veteran of 30 years will be sent from St. Louis to the Rainey home at Carrollton, Ill., for burial Wednesday.

President Roosevelt will go on a special train to attend the services in the little city where Rainey was born 74 years ago.

The body will lie in state in the rotunda of the courthouse until after noon, when it will be taken to the Rainey home. There the funeral services will be held at 4 p.m.

President Roosevelt will lead the distinguished group of governmental officials and members of Congress. Included will be the entire Illinois congressional delegation, Representative Byrnes of Tennessee, Democratic house leader, and Representative Snell of New York, Republican leader.

Jury Deadlocked in Weisner Case

Highway Accident Trial Reset Next Monday in Municipal Court

A municipal court jury Monday afternoon failed to agree after more than two hours' deliberation in the case of Alvin Wisener, charged with reckless driving.

The jury stood four for acquittal and one for conviction. The trial was reset for next Monday.

Court action against Weisner resulted from an automobile collision on the Fulton highway several weeks ago in which R. J. Ingram and his two children were injured when their car overturned and burst into flames.

The accident occurred when Weisner whipped around a wagon and struck the Ingram automobile which en route from Dallas to Little Rock.

The trial was marked by heated arguments between the defendant's representative, Attorney Curtis Cannon and Deputy Prosecuting Attorney John Vesey.

Other court procedure Monday included arraignment of several negroes on charges of carrying pistols. One was Danny Straughter who drew a $50 fine.

Frank Nobel, operator of a negro resort, testified that he gave Straughter a gun and told him to take charge of the house which included 18 negroes while he (Nobel) went home to get a cup of coffee at 3 o'clock in the morning. Officers arrested Straughter a few minutes later.

Preacher Walker, negro prize fighter, was arrested with a gun and fined $50 and costs. A charge of carrying a pistol against Daisy Johnson was continued.

Enroute to court Monday to attend trials only as spectators, Louise McGruder, Rosie Lee Johnson, Thelma Poindester and Niece Taylor, negro women, engaged in a free-for-all fight near the city hall. Police broke up the battle and ordered them into the court room. Each was fined $5 on simple assault charges.

Other cases: Bece Cannon, disturbing the peace, fined $10 and costs.

Rosie Walker, Dillie Cochran and Julia Wood, all negro women, were fined $10 and costs each on petit larceny charges. They were arrested for shop-lifting at the L. C. Burr & Co. store.

Douglas Fairbanks Home From Europe

But Reconciliation With Mary Pickford Is Unlikely

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks will end his 14 months' absence from Hollywood Tuesday. But whether his separation from Mary Pickford, formally announced by Mary soon after her husband left for Europe, will end is not known.

Fairbanks' aids here, including C. E. Erickson, his business manager, profess not the slightest knowledge of his plans.

"There is no chance that Mary will meet Doug at the train," said a spokesman for Miss Pickford.

Fairbanks is traveling in a special railroad car from Denver, where he attended the funeral of a sister-in-law.

Mark Larkin, who plays the dual role of press agent for the estranged "first couple" of cinemaland, said he had had no word directly from Fairbanks "about anything." He also said Miss Pickford had not discussed the possibility of a reconciliation with him nor, so far as he knew, with anyone.

Brooklyn Robbers Clean Out Truck in Three Minutes

Daring Raid on Armored Truck Nets Bandits $427,000

OVERLOOK $29,000

Gang Estimated to Be 12 Men, Armed With 6 Sub-machine Guns

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—(AP)—A band of at least a dozen robbers, armed with six or more sub-machine guns, Tuesday held up an armored truck in one of the most daring robberies in Brooklyn's history and escaped with an estimated loot of $427,000.

The robbers cleaned out the truck in three minutes.

They left behind one money bag containing $29,000.

The gang escaped in two automobiles.

34,502 Families Ask Drouth Relief

50,825 More Arkansas Families on Direct Relief During July

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—A total of 34,502 families in 37 of the 52 drouth counties in Arkansas had applied for aid from the FERA through last Saturday, Colonel Frank R. Allen, state drouth relief administrator, said Tuesday.

Of these, 14,611 applications have been approved, and 3,092 rejected, his report showed.

In addition to the drouth relief applications 50,825 families were on the direct relief rolls during July.

Drouth-relief applications included those from the following counties: Clark 34; Pope 860; Union 1.

Prisoners Seize Guns and Escape

3 Lock Up Oklahoma Jail and Make Their Getaway

SHAWNEE, Okla.—(AP)—Three prisoners seized a machine gun and other firearms and escaped from the county jail at Tecumseh late Monday, locking up the jailer and members of the family of Sheriff W. A. Roberts.

The three—Leonard Blair, Ted Roberts and Omnia Kirkandall—overpowered Jailed Ed Milligan, forced him into a cell and ransacked the jail of fire and the sheriff's living quarters.

Mrs. Roberts, her daughter, Thelma and two sons, Johnnie and Willard, were locked in quarters below the jail and the trio fled in the sheriff's automobile.

Sheriff Roberts, returning from Shawnee, had difficulty getting into the jail.

Milligan said he was "scratched up some," but none of the Roberts family were hurt.

Six prisoners remained in the jail.

Bulletins

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Federal Housing Administration announced Tuesday it had accepted contracts of insurance under the modernization plan from 11 additional Arkansas banks, including: Arkadelphia Savings & Loan Ass'n., and Bank of Russellville.

Poisoning By Benzene Increases in Industry

As benzene and its products become more and more numerous in industry, physicians continue to see larger numbers of cases of persons who have been affected by benzene poisoning.

In the rubber industry and in the manufacture of varnishes particularly, the use of benzene is common. Gasoline is, of course, a member of the benzene series of chemicals and is not as a rule as poisonous in its effect on the nervous system as are other benzene.

Chief danger of this substance is its effect on the blood. It not only causes a breaking down of the red blood cells and a diminution of the red coloring matter of the blood, but also may attack the white blood cells and in that way threaten life itself.

These poisons also seem to affect the walls of the blood vessels which they render fragile. In this way they predispose the person concerned to hemorrhages. Persons who are affected by benzene poisoning bleed easily.

The acute forms of poisoning with benzene usually begin as a result of some accidental situation. For example, a worker may be asked to clean the inside of a still or a tank or to paint the inside of a tank, using varnish or benzene.

He may appear to be dazed or intoxicated or become unconscious when brought out into the fresh air and very frequently such cases are mistaken for alcoholic intoxication.

Much more frequent, of course, is the chronic form of poisoning which appears with a loss of color, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, drowsiness, frequent nose bleeding, and excessive bleeding from trivial injuries.

Fortunately, the ideal method of treatment for a condition such as this is simply to remove the person concerned from the type of work in which he comes in contact with benzene.

If then he is given plenty of rest, nourishing food, fresh air, and a diet rich in iron and vitamins, his blood system will usually soon return to normal.

Job on Power Lines Brings Many Thrills—"Slim" is Novel of Men Who Follow Unique Trade

By BRUCE CATTON

Those silvery steel towers which carry the electric power transmission lines across the country are a typical feature of the modern American landscape. But did you ever stop to think about the men who put them up? What the job is like, what sort of men are hired for it, and what their lives are like?

I never did—until I read "Slim," by William Wister Haines. Having read it, I shall never see one of those transmission lines again without thinking of its human background.

For "Slim" is a novel about the men who build those lines; and according to Mr. Haines, the work is one of those strange, specialized callings, liberally spiced with danger, which permit certain modern Americans to live under old-time frontier conditions.

Putting up those spindly towers, according to the experiences related in this book, is no job for weaklings. Skating around on a four-inch steel beam 100 feet off the ground isn't a task I'd hangar for; and the ins and outs of handling "hot" wires, where the slightest mistake can cause a man to be fried to a crisp, are something to make your hair stand on end.

If the characters in "Slim" are representative, this work is done by men who are in a class apart—which is why that they live under frontier conditions.

They are rovers, ranging from one end of the land to another; they have a salty and carefree humor, and they live lives which are essentially womanless. And "Slim," for all that it is pretty technical, is an absorbingly interesting book.

Published by the Atlantic Monthly Press, it sells at $2.50.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

MABEL McELLIOTT
Copyright 1934
By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS HARBURN, 18, and pretty, is openly snubbed by SYLVIA RIVERS, the richest girl in Larchneck, fashionable New York suburb. Sylvia fails to ask Boots to a party at the Yacht Club. Boots accepts a belated invitation from MISS WATKINS, one of the elderly social lights.

HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, who had been drinking, puts Boots in an embarrassing situation and she is escorted home by RUSS LUND, swimming instructor. The malicious Sylvia seizes this opportunity to hurt Boots and persuade MISS WATKINS, of the Woman's Club to ask Boots to resign from the Junior.

Hardy calls to apologize and Boots accepts his invitation to date that evening. In a spirit of recklessness she asks him to take her to "The Barn," a questionable dance resort.

Young MISS GEORGE, a neighbor asks Boots to lunch.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

BOOTS traced the pattern of the blue damask cloth with her finger. "So that's the way it happened," she said, looking straight into her companion's eyes. "And I'm elected. I'm the goat. You see that." There was an imperceptible sob in her voice although her eyes, bright and dry, belied it.

"My dear!" The other woman smiled at her encouragingly. "You're taking all of this too seriously. Believe me, it isn't important. Oh, I know," she went on swiftly at Boots' gesture of dissent, "I know it seems so to you. At the moment it swallows up—doesn't it?—everything else in the world. You can't read the morning papers, can't be interested in floods or plagues or world shaking discoveries because Mrs. Alice Donnelly Fennell, or whatever her name is, has decided you misbehaved and don't rate a ticket to the Christmas Assembly, or whatever the damned thing is."

Boots laughed hysterically. "That's exactly it," she said. "You like this boy—Hardy?"

Frances George wanted to know. Boots stared out of the window past the cool green of the elms past the steel pen where Gwen George frolicked and the shaded pram where Perry George, Junior, slept.

"He's—he's attractive," she said. "Last week I thought—well, I was crazy enough to think I really was in love with him. You know—I'd seen him in a crowd and he was so good-looking and he never knew I was alive. I'd made a sort of hero of him, I suppose."

Mrs. George nodded, understandingly. "Well, then I found out since that he's really pretty dumb. He has charming manners when he wants to use them but he's not terribly amusing. He says the same thing over and over again. I know most girls don't mind that—it's sort of having a line—but it gets on my nerves," Boots confessed ingenuously.

"You're what—almost 19?" Mrs. George wanted to know. "Not going to college?"

"Can't," Boots admitted. "Daddy's business."

"Of course. Well, you don't want to hang around the village for ages, waiting for the old ladies to smile at you again," "You want to marry—later, of course. But not necessarily a first blond be-man who gives you a kind word."

"I thought if I could get away," Boots said, sipping her iced tea and relaxing for the first time in days, "I thought I might really do something. But Mother doesn't seem to want me to. She's very old school, Mother is. She says a girl ought to stay at home until the right man comes along. What did you say?" as her hostess choked violently over her glass.

"Nothing. Went down the wrong way," muttered Frances George, spluttering and mopping her eyes. What she had said, involuntarily and with horror, at Boots' description of the program which had been laid out for her was, "In this day and age!"

Gwen created a diversion at the moment by falling down and barking one plump knee. By the time the colored Louise had brought the microphone and peace had been established Boots discovered it was three o'clock and time to see to her marketing.

"I wish I could do something, really," Frances George told her sincerely. "When your mother gets back perhaps we can cook up something for you to do. I could give you a letter to some friends on 'Womanhood,'—the magazine, you know."

"Oh, would you, honestly? I'd never be able to thank you." "Well, we might see what could be done, anyhow," said Frances judiciously.

BOOTS went back to her tasks in a more cheerful frame of mind. But it was lonely the next few days. The telephone rang only once or twice and then it was the cashier at the market, asking for an order. Johnny went to the mountains and Hardy called to say he would be at the family's Maine camp until August.

"Oh, well," Boots said, hanging up, "I wouldn't have seen him much anyway. That was just a flash in the pan."

When she went to the club she avoided "the gang" coolly. Pride held her back and she imagined slights where slights were not. Isabel wanted to talk to her one day but she brushed by with such a strained and artificial smile that her friend withdrew, feeling unpleasantly hurt. She fell into the way of choosing old hours to swim, times when only "the kids" with their nurses were on the sand or old ladies, napping with their crocheting, under the awnings.

In this way she came to get away a lot of Russ. He was always there, his square-shouldered, smiling. He didn't bother her. He talked a little, fragmentary bits of conversation which didn't require an answer, and Boots found him oddly restful, sympathetic. His mood fitted hers. She did not realize that the man was watching her keenly, measuring her moods, adapting his stride to hers. Thus she fell into the way of accepting him as a friend, telling him little amusing things, watching for his big smile and his hearty laugh.

And it was summer—warm, glorious, impetuous summer when young things grew and flourished under the sun and of nights the white moon shone down on a world embroidered with a tapestry of beauty. The blue stalks of delphinium in the garden were ghostly in the moonlight, the roses had never seemed so luxuriant. There was scent everywhere—the good smell of earth under swift summer rains, the perfume of moonflowers in the dusk. Boots felt it—the spell of summer was on the land. Every open car, blurring with light frocks and lighter laughter, had a touch of magic. Every radio played love songs and the summer nights were lonely as one drowner in the porch swing.

Her father had gone to the Hartises for a game of bridge one evening and she was half-sitting half-lying in a deep chair when she heard a car stop at the hedge heard hard, masculine steps on the walk. She sat up suddenly.

"Oh, you."

It was Russ, brave in new white flannels and a dark blue coat. He looked big, masculine, dominating.

"Hello. Thought you might be around. Want to go down on the rocks for a while?"

She hesitated. Now was the time, if ever, to snub him, to make him realize the difference in their respective positions. But why should she? She was young, pulsing with life; she was lonely. He had been kind to her.

"All right," she said impulsively. "Just wait until I powder my nose."

SHE wondered, as she hastily ran a comb through her gilt curls and fluffed a bit of scented powder on her face, why her heart was beating so fast and furiously. Why was only Russ Lund! Surely she couldn't be excited about the prospect of going out with him.

She came to the screen door and something blocked it. His big shadow, looming almost menacingly, shut out the moonlight.

"I'm ready," she said, confused. He was at her side and, almost before she knew what was happening, his arms were around her, crushing her in a grip at once tender and triumphant; his face was very close to hers.

"Don't. Don't." Her tone was almost pettish.

In an instant he released her. Panting, not knowing whether to laugh or to cry, she stared at him. Oh, she had been kissed, inexpertly enough, before. But this was different. Russ wasn't one of the "crowd." He was a man grown. Everything about him was different. She—she almost liked it, but of course he mustn't know that.

"I'm sorry," he said, but his tone didn't sound in the least bit regretful. "You're so—so damned cute."

She laughed hysterically. "Promise to behave or I shan't go down on the rocks with you." The rocks formed a sort of promontory on the shore. All young Larchneck gathered there on these warm, moonlit nights. She would have seen with Russ . . . the tongues would start gabbling . . . but she told herself she didn't care.

The water lapped in ceaselessly. Russ brought a rug from the battered car and spread it for her to sit upon. In her transparent frock, with her hair a bright halo about her small, pointed face, there was something almost unearthly about Boots tonight. The man settled himself rather awkwardly beside her. All about them, at discreet distances, little groups, couples were gathered. Somewhere a boy's voice was raised in song. Far out on the water the lights of little boats winked on and off. A bell-buoy sounded eerily far to the north.

"Pretty," Russ said inadequately. But he was looking at Boots, not at the view.

"Oh, isn't it?" She leaned back, her chin tilted at the stars. Russ said fiercely, "Come along. You look so damned sweet I'm certain to kiss you again if we stop here."

Boy Scouts

The Texas-Arkansas Boy Scout Council set aside the first two weeks in August for troop camping at Pioneer Troop No. 58 is the only troop of the Hempstead county district to follow this kind of camping. Harry Segnar, Sr., was in charge of the trip and the troop at the camp, being assisted by F. T. Fenwick.

At the camp Harry Segnar, Jr., and Gus Bernier, Jr., were selected as but leaders. Some of the contests of the week won by Hope scouts were: J. W. Bearden defeated at Foreman scout in the boxing match; Charles Briant won a pie-eating contest; defeating his nearest opponent by six minutes. For evening entertainment, the Hope scouts displayed a "circus," a "wood car," stunt and "blind bat" stunt. Several boys were detailed to kitchen duty when they returned late from a hike; they would not have returned then if a hunting expedition had not found them following a compass which was not correct. The only sickness developed in the camp came when scouts were assigned to dish washing. On the return trip Mr. Segnar took the scouts to a forest watchtower near Lockesburg, which proved to be one of the many pleasant memories of the week.

The following scouts had $2.50 for this week's outing: J. W. Bearden, Billy Orlin, "Elex" Taylor, Charles Briant, Bill Tom, Bundley, Joe Olmstead, Sybil Burke, J. C. White, Harry Segnar, Jr., Fred Briant, Richard Fenwick, Charles Segnar, Gus Bernier, Jr., Paul Waddle, Homer Lavander, David Boyett, Paul Waddle and Robert Bales.

The scouts, appreciating this camp, voted the highest honors of the land to Mr. Segnar and Mr. Fenwick, who made this outing possible.

Civil Conflict in Louisiana Possible

Long's Defiance of Courts May Be Followed by Armed Action

Civil War Looms
NEW ORLEANS, La. —(AP)— A threat of armed conflict hung over New Orleans Monday on the eve of Huey Long's legislative investigation of Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley's city administration.

Long, backed by the state militia, a private army and a host of "dictator" powers conferred upon him by a subservient legislature, maintained an ominous silence as the September 11 primary election approached.

Mayor Walmsley's police stood at their arms, awaiting his orders, as he reaffirmed his intention to prevent Long's "armed henchmen" from appearing at the polls on election day.

Long's legislative committee investigation of governmental affairs in the city, which had been scheduled to start early this week.

It was reported the committee had been selected, the lawyers have been hired, and that an immediate inquiry will be launched into New Orleans' affairs.

Walmsley called his Old Regular ward leaders to the city hall Monday and conferred with them for some time, but made no announcement.

The investigating committee is not scheduled to report to the legislature until February 1935, the month in which the gubernatorial primary will be held.

The committee, however, is empowered to hold open meetings at any time, and it is believed the quiz would be started immediately for its effect on the September election, in which Long and Walmsley are supporting rival candidates for congress.

How long Shirley's film career will last her parents do not know. Figures have been collected to show that the average child star's earning period is limited to about three and one-half years.

Mrs. Temple hopes Shirley can continue making pictures for a long time as she wants her daughter to be assured of financial independence when she grows up.

Aside from that Mrs. Temple isn't concerned. It is Shirley's personal welfare that is of importance to her mother.

U. S. COTTON

Had been made to the president and that all that remained was his approval. Mr. Roosevelt last year authorized the 10-cent a pound loan on staple. Millions of dollars were saved for Southern farmers as the result.

Under the loan plan the government would advance farmers who wish to hold their cotton the price agreed upon, —12 1-3 or 13 cents, probably.

Should cotton fall below the loan price and stay there, the government would take the loss. But if it rises above the figure, farmers could repay the government, sell the cotton and take the profit.

A group of Southern senators, including Bankhead, Alderman, Smith, South Carolina, and Thomas, Oklahoma, advocated recently that such loans be made on wheat and corn as well as cotton.

A corn loan plan was put into effect for the 1933 crop but officials said that cotton is the only commodity likely to be included, for the present, at least, in the loan arrangement.

A figure of 12 1-2 cents a pound has been suggested for the advance to cotton growers but so has 13 cents a lint pound.

Officials said this would be decided by Mr. Roosevelt.

In effect the loan would be a price fixing arrangement, because it assures the average farmer a minimum figure for his crop.

Cotton was below 10 cents last year when the administration put its loan plan into effect. Little was sold until the price reached 10 cents.

Blood Pressure Is Reduced by X-Ray

New Method Successful in 80 Per cent of Cases Treated

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Use of X-ray in reducing the inoperable, fatal condition known as "high blood pressure" has resulted successfully in nearly 80 per cent of cases treated, Dr. James H. Hutton of Chicago told the American Association of Railway Surgeons Monday.

The irradiation is applied to the pituitary body in the head and to the adrenal glands over the kidneys, on the hypothesis that over-activity of these two endocrine or ductless glands is the reason for the high blood pressure.

"This method brings about symptomatic relief and a fairly satisfactory reduction in blood pressure in cases of essential hypertension in the vast majority of cases," Dr. Hutton said. "We have had no bad results."

"Hallelujah" is a popular European name for the word sore, of the geranium family; this name is due to the fact that the plant flowers between Easter and Whitsuntide.

Total 1933 milk production of the United States has been estimated at 105,135,000,000 pounds.

Government Denies Rumor Regarding Austria, Hungary

FLORENCE, Italy.—(AP)—Unconfirmed rumors said Tuesday that Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Schuschnigg of Austria, meeting here, were drafting a military clause for an Italo-Austro-Hungarian accord.

The clause would be one of mutual assistance between the three countries and would permit Italy to march into Austria if necessary, to aid that nation.

Well-informed sources, however, said they were not inclined to give the rumor much credence.

Sweet Home

The series of meetings at this place conducted by the Church of Christ, with Bro. C. C. Merritt of Blevins doing the preaching, came to a close Sunday night. There were good attendance and good attention throughout the entire series. There were three additions to the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lamb of Delight spent the week end here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Delaney.

Miss Theda Earle Campbell is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Lewis Salmon.

Miss Florence Huskey is attending the bedside of her sister, Mrs. Robert Purdy who is ill at her home in Prescott.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Fulkerson were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hix Lee Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Milbrun Phillips and children were here Saturday night attending church services.

Hayden Harris of Blevins is spending the week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. McDougald.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brown were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Montgomery and children enjoyed a visit with Mr. and Mrs. James Carman Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hendrix, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Wade and other of Blevins attended church services here on Sunday.

Mrs. J. J. Delaney is spending the week in Delight visiting relatives and friends.

The first studio in India for production of sound pictures has been opened at Calcutta. American equipment that can be moved about for production of news reels is being used.

NOTHING LIKE A GOOD SWIM TO SHAKE OFF A LARGE NIGHT, EH?—YOU'RE STAYING AT THE DOVER HOTEL, TOO?—WE HAD A GREAT POKER GAME LAST NIGHT, IN ROOM 704! DIDN'T FOLD UP UNTIL FOUR THIS MORNING!—I'M NOT MUCH OF A PLAYER, BUT THE CARDS CAME MY WAY—I WON ENOUGH TO PAY FOR MY VACATION HERE!—YES—EVER PLAY?

UM-M-A TRAP BAITER FOR A POKER PACK! HAW—I DEALT 'EM OFF THE BOTTOM WHEN THIS KNAVE WAS TEETHING!

POKER? OH, YES—THAT'S A CARD GAME, ISN'T IT?—UM—MAYBE I WILL HAVE BEGINNERS' LUCK! HEH HEH

A 212-POUND CATCH

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES Getting Nowhere. By MARTIN

HOW'D YOU, MRS. ROSS? I HOPE YOU'LL FORGIVE MY IMPOSING ON YOUR HOSPITALITY AGAIN—

WELL, I GUESS I CAN STAND IT, IF YOU CAN

I CAME TSEE YOU ABOUT RONNIE! WHERE IS HE?

HMPH!! WHERE IS HE INDEED?

WHY—WHY DO YOU SAY THAT—LIKE THAT?

BECAUSE YOUNG LADY—PRIDE IS THE ONLY THING THAT HAS KEPT ME FROM ASKING YOU THE SAME QUESTION

DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT YOU DON'T KNOW WHERE HE IS?

DO YOU MEAN TO SAY THAT YOU DON'T KNOW WHERE HE IS?

ALLEY OOP Reverse Action! By HAMLIN

GIT GOIN', PAL! DON'T STOP TO CHEER—I'VE LOST ALL INTEREST IN THIS PLACE HERE!

YOU AN' ME BOTH!

STEP ON IT, FOOZY—IT'S GAININ' ON US!

GRRR!

WASH TUBBS Nothing But the Worst From Now On! By CRANE

PODNER, I HAVE AN IDEA. IF IT'S ANYTHING LIKE GIVIN' OLD BOARDMAN A POKER IN THE NOSE, I'M FOR IT.

IT'S EVEN BETTER. THERE'S AN ARABIAN PROVERB, SPORT, THAT TO ENJOY A FEATHER BED, A FELLA MUST FIRST SLEEP ON A ROCK PILE.

THAT'S BOARDMAN'S TROUBLE. HE'S NEVER SLEPT ON ROCKS. HE'S HAD IT TOO SOFT, FROM NOW ON, SPORT, WE'RE GOING TO GIVE 'IM SOMETHING TO REALLY CRAB ABOUT.

OBOY! YOU MEAN SUMPIN' LIKE LOGIN' HIM IN A SWAMP FOR A COUPLA DAYS, WITH NOTHIN' T' EAT, AN' MILLIONS OF MOSQUITOES?

THAT'S THE IDEA, EXACTLY.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS A Breathless Moment! By BLOSSER

THERE HE IS, CHARLIE... AND HE'S CAUGHT IN THE SWIRLING CURRENT! I CAN SEE HIS HEAD BOBBING!!

WE'VE JUST GOT TO HELP HIM!

WE'LL TAKE A CUT-OFF TO THE BEND... GRAB THAT PACK ROPE, AND HURRY!

WHAT ARE YOU GONNA DO?

I'LL TRY TO ROPE A ROCK ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE RIVER... IT'S NARROW AT THE BEND! IF IT WORKS, WE'LL HOLD THE ROPE LOW ENOUGH FOR HIM TO GRAB IT!

KEEP YOUR CHIN UP, NUTTY! WE'LL GET YOU!!

GRAB THE ROPE, NUTTY... GRAB IT!

LOOK, CHARLIE! THAT ROPE WAS IN THE FIRE... IT'S BURNED ALMOST THROUGH! WILL IT HOLD HIM?... IT'S JUST GOTTA!!

THE NEWFANGLES (Mom'n Pop) Something to Celebrate! By COWAN

IT'S UNBELIEVABLE THAT SO MANY THINGS COULD BE STOLEN AND NO ONE CAUGHT!

WELL, MY DEAR, IF THEY EVER DO CATCH THE THREE, WE SHOULD THROW A PARTY AND CELEBRATE!

OH, SAYS THAT REMINDS ME—

—HENRY AND I HAVE MAKING WHOOPIE A WEEK FROM NEXT SATURDAY AND YOU'RE BOTH INVITED

IT'S THEIR FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY AND THEY'RE STAGING A BIG CELEBRATION!

SAY, THE YETI, SAID HEY JUST LAST SUMMER... WERE YOU THERE? GET THAT FIFTH ANNIVERSARY STUFF?

WHY, THE YETI EACH KILLED HUNDREDS FIVE TIMES!!

OUT OUR WAY By WILLIAMS

THAT'S WHUT I GIT FER LEAVIN' YOU FOLLER ME—YOU GIT SORE FEET AN' CAIN'T WALK—I TAKE YOU UP ON MY HOSS, AN' HE BUCKS US BOTH OFF—AN' SOON, I'LL HEV SORE FEET AN' CAIN'T WALK— THEN WE BOTH CAIN'T WALK!

HEROES ARE MADE—NOT BORN.
